Korean Armistice Talks To Be Resumed Thursday

SENATE PROBE TO QUESTION BARKLEY SEC.

Washington, Oct. 24.—(P)—Senate investigators today asked to see RFC records on loan applications in which Vice President Barkley's secretary and a senate committee lawyer displayed interest.

W. Stuart Symington, administrator of the big lending agency, disclosed, at a news conference that the request had just been received from the senate investigation subcommittee headed by Senator Hoyer (D-N. C.).

Asked whether the records would be made available to committee investigators, Symington said: "Sure."

Mrs. Flo Bratten, secretary to Barkley, and Charles E. Shaver, counsel to the senate small business committee, have both acknowledged making inquiries to the Reconstruction Finance Corporation last year about the status of an application for $1,100,000 loan for construction of a hotel at Miami, Fla. They denied any effort to influence action.

Mrs. Bratten had an engagement during the day to discuss the matter with Barkley. Barkley previously has said he wanted "to get her side of the story." That was his response when asked if he intended to keep Mrs. Bratten as a secretary. She has worked for him almost 26 years.

The plump, gray-haired secretary told newsmen yesterday, after being questioned by senate investigators, that she had not attempted to exert influence and had done nothing wrong.

She said she had talked to Reconstruction Finance Corporation (RFC) directors, including former Chairman Harley Hise, merely to find out the status of the hotel loan application and not to urge its approval.

OPPOSE APPOINTMENT

Cleveland, Oct. 24.—(P)—Opposition to President Truman's proposal to send an ambassador to the Vatican was expressed yesterday by leaders of an area assembly of the Disciples of Christ. Members of the church from northern Ohio, western Pennsylvania and north-west Virginia are attending the meetings.

Doe Licenses Gone in Nearby Counties; Warren Down to 1,400; Rush Expected

By the end of this week, the office of County Treasurer Frank Miller may have dispensed its entire quota of antlerless deer licenses. Mr. Miller having said this afternoon that only about 1,400 licenses remain to be sold. Warren's 1951 allotment was 9,810 licenses, 60 per cent to be sold through the treasurer's office here and 40 per cent through the state department of revenue in Harrisburg, this transaction being handled by mail.

By far the larger number of antlerless licenses in Warren county have been secured by hunters from other counties, Mr. Miller said today. There has been a steady influx of customers from Corry and Erie since the day the licenses arrived.

At Harrisburg today, it was reported that 27 counties already have exhausted local quotas, several more are running low, and the revenue department's allotment for Perry county also has been taken.

Inasmuch as it was said today at Harrisburg that quotas for Butler, Crawford, Erie, Clarion, Lawrence and Venango counties have been exhausted, Warren county hunters may expect a rush from those districts to the local Court House during the remainder of the week.

ALLEGED FIGHT FIX UNDER INVESTIGATION

Scranton, Oct. 24.—(P)—The chairman of the state athletic commission came here today to confer with police authorities about a report of an attempt to fix a fight.

Chief Leo Ruddy ordered a police guard for Henry (Kid) Lee, Holyoke, Mass., welterweight, and his manager, Gus Browne, after hearing the reports about an attempted fix.

Lee scored a convincing 10-round decision over Joey DeJohn at Town Hall, Scranton, Monday night. Lee had been the underdog.

Warren's Red Feather Community Chest campaign for $54,400 continued to move right along today, and at press time 36 per cent of the total had been subscribed. It is expected that from now on reports will be coming in fast at Chest Headquarters, and the total should jump to 60 per cent by tomorrow as final returns start coming in from the industrial, special gifts, and commercial divisions.

Parolee Gets Out 'Fore He's Put In Warren County Jail

Sheriff L. E. Linder's department was continuing the search today for Melvin Sykes, 37, of near Bradford, who walked out the back door of Warren county jail, early Tuesday afternoon, shortly after being brought in by authorities on a charge of parole violation.

It is reported that Sykes had been arrested while at work in Youngville, earlier in the day, and his record was being taken by Warden W. D. Dirling at the time he made his escape. He asked the warden for a drink of water.

New Member On Selective Service

Melvin G. Keller, chairman of the Warren County Selective Service Board, announced today that Arthur L. Langdon, 10 Conewango avenue, has been named to the Board to succeed Ben Kinnear, prominent Warren businessman who resigned from the Board several weeks ago.

The third member of the Board is R. Pearson Eaton, Warren attorney.

Mr. Langdon, who came to Warren in 1909, is a veteran of World War I, having served overseas with the famed Eighth Division. He is assistant cashier of the First National Bank.

At Harrisburg today, it was announced Warren county's November draft quota will be nine men, to leave here November 21.

Paris, Oct. 24.—(P)—In an atmosphere of tension and fear of war, people around the world today marked the sixth anniversary of the United Nations, the world organization dedicated to the task of preserving peace.

France marked the day by giving the U. N. a golden key to the palace which will be the world organization's home in November.

In open air ceremonies, Foreign Minister Robert Schuman handed U. N. Secretary General Trygve Lie the key to the Palais de Chaillot where the general assembly will open its sixth session November 6. The Palais will officially become the property of the U. N. November 1 for as long as it is needed.

ALLIED TANKS ACTIVE WEST OF KUMSONG

U. S. Eighth Army Headquarters, Korea, Oct. 24.—(P)—Fifteen tanks again today shot up battered Kumsong on the central front as a great jet battle raged across North Korea in the fourth straight day of air fighting.

The Fifth Air Force said one jet was shot down and another probably destroyed. One U. S. F-86 Sabre jet was reported lost.

The tanks killed an estimated 85 Chinese and destroyed 24 bunkers in a raid into a valley just west of Kumsong. They returned safely to their lines through Red artillery fire.

Infantrymen slowly mopped up an estimated 120 Chinese fighting a last-ditch defense on a ridge-line southeast of the city, a front line dispatch said. It was the only resistance remaining along this sector.

The Fifth Air Force said between 70 and 150 Russian made Migas took part in the battle that raged across the entire waist of the Korean Peninsula and finally ended northwest of Wonsan on the east coast.

The new air fight followed Tuesday's scrap in which Allied B-29 Superforts and jets destroyed or damaged 20 Communist jets when they tried to stop a bombing attack on the Reds' new airfield at Namsi.

This fourth straight day of air fighting broke out when MIGs jumped Sabre jets covering B-29s as they dumped 150 bombs weighing 1,000 pounds each on a 5,000-foot single track bridge at Sunchon in Northwest Korea.

MARINE FATALITY

William Gorsuch, 19, of wounds suffered a few days ago while fighting with the Marines in Korea. Robert Gorsuch left this afternoon for Andover, N. Y., to be with his parents for a few days.

Penelec Authorized To Inaugurate A New Rate Schedule

Harrisburg, Oct. 24.—(P)—The Pennsylvania Electric Co., Johnstown, was authorized by the Public Utility Commission today to introduce a new uniform rate schedule, revising rates of 275,723 customers.

The rate equalization, effective Monday, will increase bills of 182,923 an estimated $316,700 a year. It will lower charges to 92,800 by $279,000 a year, the company said.

It explained that it had sought to design a rate which would neither increase or decrease its rate at present. It added, however, that the change does result in what it termed an unavoidable revenue boost of about $38,000 a year.

The PUC took no action to suspend the new schedule, standardizing some seven bill schedules, after it said a study of the rates showed they would not yield "an unreasonable return."

The new rate, which will apply on bills received in December includes: First 15 kilowatt hours or less per month, $1 net (minimum charge); next 35 KWH, five cent per KWH; next 100 KWH, three cents; next 300 KWH, two cents; all over 450 KWH, one and one-half cents per KWH.

The company furnishes electric service in 24 central and western Pennsylvania counties.

Liquor Prices In State to Increase Starting Nov. 1st

Harrisburg, Oct. 24.—(P)—Liquor prices in Pennsylvania will go up an average of 43 cents a "fifth," starting Nov. 1.

The price hike is in line with a new boost in federal liquor taxes. The State Liquor Control Board said today the tax increase will force a price raise of 28 cents a pint or 43 cents a four-fifth quart for average blended whiskies.

Most Canadian whiskies will go up about 49 cents a bottle, the board estimated, and bourbons, depending on the proof, from 43 to 49 cents.

The new federal tax increase is at the rate of $1.50 per proof gallon of whiskey and from 2 to 7 cents a gallon on wines, depending on alcoholic content. Beer also goes up from $7 to $8 a barrel ($1 gallons).

The board said wine prices will rise about 2 cents a quart, but added there is some speculation that wine vendors may choose to absorb the added cost themselves.

The price increase will be put into effect in all state stores on Nov. 1, the effective date of the new tax increase, the board said. Beer interests were reported today to be seeking a decision from the Office of Price Stabilization as to who will pay the additional beer tax. A spokesman said the federal agency will have to rule on whether the manufacturer, the distributor or retail customer must shoulder the tax increase.

The Liquor Board meanwhile reported that liquor sales have slumped substantially in Pennsylvania during the past three months.

SIX-YEAR-OLD BLAMED FOR PARKING TICKET

Phoenix, Ariz., Oct. 24.—(P)—A six-year-old boy, piggy bank in one hand and a parking ticket in the other, stood before traffic court Judge C. W. Pensinger yesterday.

"My mother said I've got business with you judge," the lad said, tears in his eyes.

The mother explained her son had forgotten her instructions to put a penny in a parking meter and the car had been ticketed. So they had gone home and gotten his piggy bank from which to pay the fine.

Judge Pensinger dismissed the charge on condition the boy remember his mother's instructions in the future.

THIS IS "UNITED NATIONS DAY" and in most appropriate observance thereof, the combined sixth grades at East Street school have on display in the school two huge murals, their own handiwork, which describe in swift illustrated detail the United Nations plan. The combined grades, taught by Mildred Ochs and Paul Mutzbaugh, are shown above, standing before the great murals.

This work is done primarily as a unit in world geography," said Dr. Carl E. Whipple, superintendent of schools, "and with the idea of developing the pupils' understanding of the various peoples and races."

The two teachers pointed out that this mural work of the United Nations brought to the children the realization that the world today is a community of nations, and that the more they learn about the various peoples, nations and races, the better they can understand their ultimate actions. The teachers say they hope that each child who participated in this creative group activity will become a better "world citizen" and will deserve the responsibilities of leadership when time and situation challenge.

No Man in Combat Will Spend Second Winter in Korea, Defense Official Says

Somewhere in Korea, Oct. 24.—(P)—Mrs. Anna Rosenberg, assistant secretary of defense, today visited Korea and assured fighting men: "No man in combat will spend a second winter in Korea," except a few technicians difficult to replace.

Mrs. Rosenberg referred to the rotation of men who have been in Korea approximately a year. There was no hint that the war wouldn't go into a second winter.

She also said category four officers—inactive reservists involuntarily called back into service—will be released after their 17-month hitch.

"The law requires these officers to be released, and we are going to live up to that," Mrs. Rosenberg told newsmen.

The lively little lady secretary jumped to a frontline post after landing at a division airstrip.

She told a group of combat soldiers: "We are keeping the rotation pipeline going. You men are going to be returned as fast as we can get replacements."

One soldier told the secretary he had been in Korea 11 months. Mrs. Rosenberg looked up at him and said "no man in combat will spend a second winter in Korea."

She said she was repeating a statement made earlier by Chief of Staff Gen. J. Lawton Collins.

SCHOOL BUS TRAGEDY

Mercer, Oct. 24.—(P)—Nine-year-old Kenneth Bestwick of Jackson Center was killed by a school bus as it slowed to a stop to discharge pupils in front of Stoneboro Joint Consolidated School yesterday.

Miss Wakefield succeeds Wilma Burlingame, of Spartansburg, who was chosen Livestock Queen last year.

There were four other Warren and Forest county girls in the contest. They were Elsa Nelson, Youngville; Elaine Lichtenberger, Sheffield; Mary Lee Zuendel, Tionesta; and Charlotte Schall, Endeavor.

Proclaims End of War With Germany

Washington, Oct. 24.—(P)—President Truman today formally proclaimed the end of the state of war between the United States and Germany.

His action was a followup to a joint congressional resolution ending the conflict. The proclamation said the war, which was declared Dec. 11, 1951, was terminated on Oct. 19, 1951, the date of the passage of the resolution.

Britain Keeps A Tight Clamp On Suez Canal Area

BULLETIN

Cairo, Oct. 24.—(P)—Guns of British warships covered British merchant ships clearing through the Suez Canal today against orders of the Egyptian government. The Suez and the Canal areas were quiet after violent outbursts of anti-British rioting, and the government issued stern warnings, against new outbursts.

Cairo, Egypt, Oct. 24.—(P)—Egypt's government sounded stern warnings against anti-foreign rioting today as Britain maintained her bristling armed defenses along the seized Suez Canal.

Britain modified her clampdown on traffic to let 250 oil trucks go through from Suez to Cairo, Egyptian officials said. Most rail traffic in the Canal area still was banned and road traffic moved under tight restrictions.

Egyptian informants said the oil trucks were let through after British officials of the Shell Oil Company told the British military that oil installations at Suez would be damaged if they had to be shut off because of a distribution stoppage.

Strong forces of Egyptian police, kept on the alert against mobs for days, fired on unruly crowds in Alexandria yesterday. One demonstrator was reported killed.

Voters From Registered Electorate Of 35,000,000 to Cast Ballots In Britain

London, Oct. 24.—(P)—Britain's election campaign ends tonight focused on two critical issues—the country's place in a world threatened by war, and her bitterly controversial experiment in socialism. Voters from a registered electorate of 35,000,000 cast their ballots Thursday.

Their choice lies between the Conservative Party led by Winston Churchill, and the Socialist Party who came to power in July, 1945. The Liberals, standing about midway between these two in doctrine, have entered too few candidates to form a government. They hope only to constitute a balancing "third force" in the next house of commons.

Both big contenders forecast victory. The general belief, however, is that Churchill and the Conservatives will come back to power by more than 35 parliamentary seats and possibly by 60 or more.

This belief is based to a large degree on numerous polls of public opinion, which unanimously favor the conservatives. Apart from these political technicalities and party maneuvering, two facts are ominously evident. They confront every voter plainly, regardless of his political sophistication or his station in life.

One is that Britain has a bad case of low blood pressure economically. It's getting worse. The other is that the bonds between Britain and the United States are frayed and working loose. Both sides recognize the seriousness of this in the struggle with the Communist world, and in a world where Britain is encountering new and serious troubles in areas she once dominated.

BUFFER ZONE IS CONSIDERED MAJOR ISSUE

Munsan, Korea, Oct. 24.—(P)—Allied and Communist negotiators will reopen Korean armistice talks tomorrow. They will tackle first the knotty problem of where to establish a buffer zone.

The five-man delegations will meet at Panmunjom, a roadside village six miles east of Red-held Kaesong where the search for a cease-fire agreement was suspended August 23 by the Reds.

Tomorrow's meeting is scheduled to begin at 11 a. m. (9 p. m. Wednesday, EST).

Panmunjom is accessible to each side without having to travel through enemy territory. The tiny town now has the appearance of an American carnival. Armistice activities are housed in circus-like tents. Huge colored balloons and searchlights ring the conference area to warn warplanes away from the neutral zone.

Resumption of the conference talks was made possible when the Communists Wednesday ratified security ground rules drafted by U. N. and Communist liaison officers in 12 meetings at Panmunjom since October 10.

The U. N. had approved the ground rules Monday. An Allied liaison officer said a new dispute cropped up Wednesday. The Communists objected to Allied military policemen at the entrance of the negotiations tent. The Communists insisted that the MPs be stationed on the road about 110 yards away. The liaison officer said the guards would be posted at the tent door unless Adm. C. Turner Joy, chief U. N. negotiator, yields to the Red demand.

28th to Sail Soon After November 12

Washington, Oct. 24.—(P)—The first contingents of the 28th Pennsylvania Guard Division will sail for Germany shortly after Armistice Day, the Army said today.

Most of the Division and all of its gear will be taken aboard transports at Norfolk, Va. About 4,000 men will board vessels at New York after taking part in an Armistice Day parade in Philadelphia, Nov. 12.

The Division is moving to Munroe in four groups.

The 28th completed its training at Camp Atterbury, Ind., and recently took part in large scale maneuvers in North Carolina.

It went on duty at approximately half of the regular 18,000 man strength for a combat division.

State Fish Commission Begins Study Of Costs of Rebuilding Columbus Dam

Harrisburg, Oct. 24.—(P)—The State Fish Commission began a study today of the cost of rebuilding Columbus dam in Warren county.

Charles A. French, executive director, said the commission wants to find out just how much the project would entail.

French said sentiment among the fish commissioners is much in favor of undertaking the job, but a final decision depends on the financial outlay required. The dam is located three miles east of Corry.

He said the cost study will be examined by the commission and a final decision made some time this fall or winter. The agency is in no hurry to make up its mind.

"Food Plan for Home Defense" Issued By the State Council of Civil Defense

All readers of the Times-Mirror, especially heads of families, are urged by W. Floyd Clinger, director of Civil Defense for Warren county, to follow instructions given in "A Food Plan for Home Defense," just issued by the State Council of Civil Defense, Harrisburg.

Mr. Clinger says all families and individuals should be prepared to care for their major emergency food needs for a period of several days. "Bear in mind that food might not be available in local stores," said Mr. Clinger, "and that gas, electricity and water may be shut off."

Mr. Clinger has submitted the following suggestions in the "Food Plan for Home Defense" in the belief that they may help Warren county residents to plan wisely to meet needs during an emergency:

1. Decide what place in your home or apartment is safest and best to store foods, cool, dry place is desirable—a cellar or basement if it is dry.
2. Make a plan and assemble enough food to feed your family for at least three days. Select the prevent food waste.

6. Use and replace all other stored items with fresh stock every three to six months for best flavor and to prevent waste. Some members of the family should make this his regular responsibility.
7. Consider the seasoning and flavors your family likes. Provide for the ones most desirable, such as those listed in the suggestions for the box.
8. Store a supply of water (1 to 2 gallons per person) in glass or tin. Keep in cool place. Before storage, sterilize water by boiling twenty minutes and put it at once in a sterilized container. Seal. Replace this water at least once every three months. (Turn to Page Sixteen)

Steers From This County Entered In Livestock Exhibit

More than 200 steers . . . 17 of them owned by members of the Sugar Grove Farmington Future Farmers of America chapter . . . are entered in the Third Annual Northwestern Pennsylvania Livestock Association's show and auction now being held at the Crawford County fairgrounds, Meadville.

Judges will award blue ribbons to the best entries today, and then the steers will be placed on the auction block tomorrow, with buyers expected from several states.

Adding glamour to the show is a contest to pick a Livestock Queen. Twenty-four girls, representing Future Homemakers Chapters in high schools in four counties, are entered in the contest. They will participate in a parade in Meadville tonight, and selection of the queen and her court will take place at the fairgrounds tomorrow morning. The girls will then go to Erie where they will appear on a TV show, starting at 1 p. m.

Entered in the contest from Warren and Forest counties are Dorothy Wakefield, Sugar Grove; Elaine Nelson, Youngsville; Elaine Lichtenberger, Sheffield; Charlotte Schall, Meadville; and Mary Lee Zuenda, Tionesta.

Selected women will be commissioned to serve as administrative officers or WAF squadron commanders after an eight-week indoctrination course at San Marcos Air Force Base near San Antonio, Texas. These appointments equal in pay and prestige those of other Air Force officers.

Warren young women who meet the requirements and are interested may contact Sgt. James Horony, USA and USAF recruiter, so that an interview in Erie may be arranged.

In the week, the daily production averaged 55,200 barrels as compared with the daily demand of 56,998 barrels. This is a difference of 1,798 barrels.

PRODUCTION DOWN

A drop of 800 barrels was reported in the daily average production of Pennsylvania grade crude oil in the week ended October 13, according to the American Petroleum Institute. In that week, the daily output averaged 55,200 barrels as compared to the previous week's 56,000 barrels. West Virginia had the biggest increase—550 barrels to 8,350. Allegheny's was up 50 to 9,600 barrels and southeastern Ohio also was up 50 barrels to 5,100. Bradford had the biggest slump—1,125 barrels to 25,975. Other declines: Kane-Butler's 125 to 3,675 and southwestern Pennsylvania's 200 to 2,400 barrels.

ACCEPTED AS PUPIL

The many friends of Billy Carlson, son of Mrs. H. A. Carlson, 20 Parker street, will be pleased with the news that he has been accepted as a voice pupil by Mrs. Lillian Fairchild Jesso, Jamestown. Well known in musical circles, Mrs. Jesso was formerly a student under Dr. Frank Damrosch at the Institute of Musical Art of New York City, later the Juilliard Foundation of Music, and has had a wealth of experience in study abroad. For the past six years, she has been back in Jamestown, where she takes only a limited number of pupils each year.

GRAPE CROP SMALL

There was some indication that the size of the present grape crop had been over estimated by growers and would be smaller than pre-season calculations. One North East plant indicated that growers who had completed the harvest had turned in tonnage not more than 65 per cent of the estimate and another that its growers, now through, had supplied about 80 per cent of estimates. Both processors, however, pointed out that growers who have already finished harvesting are those with smaller acreage and that their results are not necessarily indicative of the over-all tonnage.

REVISES PROMOTIONS

The State Civil Service Commission has started to re-establish all promotional lists in line with a recent State Supreme Court decision. The first promotion lists to be re-ranked in accordance with the court decision are the rosters for accounting jobs established as a result of an examination program held in August, 1950. Letters advising candidates of this first revision were placed in the mails today. On September 24, the State Supreme Court ruled unconstitutional a 1945 state law granting veterans 10 additional points in state and local civil service examinations for promotions. Becht explained that the decision makes it necessary to deduct from the final scores of veterans 10 points preference originally accorded them on promotion rosters under the Veterans Preference Act.

DEPENDENCY REPORT

Public dependency in Pennsylvania continued to shrink during the early part of October as the state's public assistance rolls registered their 19th consecutive semi-monthly decline since the beginning of the year. Figures released by the Department of Public Assistance indicate that the decline in the rolls in the first half of the month amounted to approximately 2,990 persons. As a result of this latest decrease, the total number of persons receiving public assistance in the state is down to 281,757—the smallest number on the rolls since May, 1946, more than five years ago. The 281,757 persons on the rolls at mid-October were divided as follows among the five assistance programs administered by the state: general assistance—26,272; old-age assistance—80,869; aid to dependent children—128,657; aid to disabled—10,516; and blind pensions—15,443.

Children in many homes of colonial America were not allowed to sit at the dinner table, but stood during the entire meal.

IS MR. WARREN, JR., TOO BUSY?

From out the heart of one individual came words last night which fitted right comfortably on the lips of many who heard what he said.

It was all informal, as many good things are. Various club and civic representatives had met and dined with a teachers' group named to formulate plans for American Education Week. The chairman called for comments on the well-planned work budget for the week, November 11-17, and came 'round to Dr. Robert S. Steen, pastor of the First Presbyterian church, whom we believe is just at that point in his span of years when he finds himself able to understand the problems of the elderly, the questions which perplex the middle-aged, and to deal sympathetically with the multitude of woes confronting the so-called younger generation.

Dr. Steen tipped his chair back to a comfortable angle, and, just conversationally, said he wondered if the young people of Warren weren't "too busy" outside school hours. He said he didn't propose to pass the problem on to the group in session last night, but said he felt there is a need in the community for "an over-all picture of these activities" from the individual standpoint of the youth. Dr. Steen very emphatically declared that he is for all of them — meaning the activities — but is not in favor of any one young American participating in too many of them for his own good.

"Every child should have time to himself, time which is absolutely his own to use as he sees fit," said Dr. Steen. "He should have time to do reading selected by himself, he should have time to go into the Pennsylvania woods, hike, hunt, or just wander about, and he should have time to waste if he wants to waste it."

You could have heard a pin drop while Dr. Steen talked.

He maintained that it would be better for young Master Warren to do one thing well, to conduct his activities in one organization in a manner which would profit himself and that organization, rather than do a haphazard job in several organizations or extra curricular activity clubs.

This plan of action is not new to the Warren school system. Every club office is considered a major activity and one student cannot hold two such responsibilities.

Dr. Steen's conversational trend started several Warren fathers to think along new lines, last night, and it is quite likely you will hear more of this tentative plan.

HUNT SAFELY, RETURN SAFELY

With the small game hunting season swinging into high gear in Pennsylvania on Nov. 1, Game Protector Dave Titus today called on all persons to hunt safely.

He pointed out that last hunting season in Pennsylvania, 16 persons were killed and 449 were injured in shooting mishaps. Many of these casualties occurred through inexperience, lack of knowledge and carelessness in handling of firearms.

The beginner and novice should first become schooled in the safe handling of his gun and later learn the technique of hunting. For protection, a hunter should wear bright red or some other distinctive coloring while hunting.

"Don't be indifferent to your own safety or that of the other person," Titus said. "A moment of carelessness can result in a life of sorrow and regret."

The sport of hunting as a recreation is a wonderful tonic for both health and happiness when safely pursued, but no piece of game is worth the risk of being shot, or the loss of an eye, an arm, a leg — or a life. Play it safe, hunt carefully, don't rush, and make sure of your target before you shoot.

Remember: Don't let your enthusiasm upset your sound judgment. You owe it to yourself and the sport to hunt safely and return safely.

This Ought to Smoke Out Something

Here And There

Fifty years ago today The Evening Times revealed details of a new addition to the retail life of the community in the following first page article which will be read with interest by older subscribers of the paper:

One of the handsomest additions to Warren's many beautiful store rooms is that now occupied by the pharmacy of J. M. Siegfried on Liberty street.

The furnishings are pleasing to the eye and do not offend good taste. They are in oak and conform with the furnishings which have been especially prepared to suit the construction of the store, and are models of convenience.

The location of the new store is one of the best things about it. Adjoining the waiting rooms and the offices of the Street Railway Company, opposite the Hotel Struthers and on one of the main business thoroughfares it will command a large trade.

From the store to the Street

Railway waiting room a connecting door has been placed and the various lines bring hundreds of persons here each day the connection is an important one.

Another feature is the large plate glass windows, the entire front being glass wherein elaborate displays of fine goods can be made. On the left is a soda fountain with plenty of seating room around it, through the center display cases, and on the right the newly installed furniture extending to the ceiling, every shelf being made available by means of a bicycle ladder.

The furnishings are light with a steel ceiling, and the room will be brilliantly illuminated by means of two are lights and a number of incandescent clusters. At the rear of the room is the prescription department, from which there is an exit onto Water street.

Everything is new, modern, light and pleasing, the whole forming one of the most complete and up-to-date pharmacies in the state.

Figures on Congress' Budget 'Economy' May Be Deceiving

BY PETER EDSON
NEA Washington Correspondent

WASHINGTON—(NEA)—It will be some weeks or months after Congress packs up and goes home before Bureau of the Budget will be able to give any idea of just how much economizing—if any—was done this session. Every paragraph of every appropriation bill has to be studied carefully to see whether it provides for a real saving, or merely deferred spending.

If it's the latter, a supplemental appropriation bill will have to be introduced in the first six months of next year.

U. S. Chamber of Commerce has just put out an estimate that money bills passed by Congress "this year" will be $12 billion under original requests made by the President. This figure sounds awfully good, but has to be carefully explained.

To get this estimate, George Smith, the U. S. Chamber's government-spending watchdog, added all the money requests mentioned by President Truman thus far in the calendar year 1951.

The total came to $105 billion. Some of these ideas were never more than a gleam in the Presidential eye, and were never presented to Congress as requests for the full amount.

Anyway, for all these items, Congress appropriated $93 billion, according to Mr. Smith's figures. Of the $12 billion "saving," he credits $4 billion to Congressional action, $8 billion to action by the President cutting back on his own first estimates.

In his budget message to Congress in January, 1950, President Truman asked originally for $45 billion. Along came the Korean War. By January, 1951, Congress had appropriated $81 billion. This obviously wasn't very good economizing.

In his January, 1951, budget message, the President asked for $71 billion. In June, Asst. Budget Director Elmer Staats was able to tell Congress this would be cut back by the President to a minimum of $68 billion. This is money to be spent this fiscal year.

If the new tax bill raises only an additional $2.5 billion, on top of estimated present taxes of $58.5 billion for a total of $61 billion, it will leave the government $7 billion in the red next June 30.

Authorization requests transmitted to Congress for this fiscal year now total $95 billion. The President's budget message estimated requests would total $98.5. But most requests are to come.

In all, Department of Defense expects to ask for between $5 billion and $10 billion extra next year, on top of the indicated $55 billion in the regular appropriation bill. Congress did order a 2 1/2 per cent cut on all military spending items, to save $1.5 billion.

FALSE economy cuts of this kind appear all through the appropriation bills. For instance, on the new Savannah River hydrogen bomb materials plant, Congress cut a request for $464 million construction funds to $264 million. But the $200 million "savings" will have to be voted later, or else construction stops.

In spite of these somewhat misleading cuts in the budget for this year, as it now stands, Congress did effect economies of about five per cent of total authorizations. The indicated savings will be in the nature of $3.5 billion, with action on several money bills still incomplete.

This is about half of the ten per cent, or $7 billion cut which Virginia Senator Harry F. Byrd and other leading government economists set out to accomplish at the beginning of the year.

Among the major cuts were $400 million off Veterans' Administration. Public roads construction was cut back $100 million. The President's $400 million flood-relief bill was cut to $113 million.

Perhaps the greatest battle for economy in this Congress was Senator Paul Douglas of Illinois. He proposed cuts on individual items totaling over $700 million. But all he could put over was a $200 million saving.

This 'n That: Helen Jepson, who became a Pennsylvania ambassador at a ceremony in Titusville last week, appeared on the "We The People" telecast Friday, when the opera star showed the plaque presented to her in Titusville, and sang "I'll Follow My Secret Heart" . . . The Chick residence on North Perry street, Titusville, which the Presbytery of Erie has purchased for a home for the aged, meets the requirements of the Pennsylvania Department and Labor and Industry, it was announced after an inspection of the structure was made by representatives of the bureau, and when remodeled the building will accommodate 26 persons. . . . Park J. Reed who resigned as boys' secretary of the Oil City YMCA effective October 21, has a large number of friends throughout the area who are sorry to see him leaving this field of activity. . . . More than a hundred relatives and friends of the Oil City American Legion band, five-time national 40 and 8 champions, were at the railroad depot Sunday morning to greet the musicians after their successful trip to Miami, Fla., scene of the 1951 American Legion convention. . . . With the moon shining brightly fishing from the Hickory street bridge continues long into the night lately, with the ardent followers of Izak Walton pulling in an occasional catch. . . . The Warren police department is doing an excellent job in curbing the enthusiasm of young Halloweeners celebrating without resorting to drastic methods, but all youngsters should remember that there is a limit, and patience some times becomes strained to the point where stern treatment must be administered to discourage destructive pranks. . . . According to all reports the High School Girls' Club "Chocolate for Christmas" dance Monday night was a huge success, with the promoters securing 276 bars of candy for the Philippines, and the Seventh Grade girls following that up with another nice donation Wednesday, making a total of 360, which reminds us of a suggestion that we urge anyone who would like to help in the project to take candy bars to the YWCA; a five-cent candy bar isn't much but it provides a chance for everyone to help make Christmas a bit brighter for those kids out in the Pacific islands.

EDNA SEXTON CIRCLE
At the regular meeting of the Edna Sexton Circle of Grace Methodist church, held at the home of Mrs. Donald Anderson, there were 18 in attendance, including three new members. Devotions were led by Mrs. Carl McDonald, who read an excerpt from the book, "Mr. Jones, Meet the Master."
During the business session conducted by the president, Mrs. James Chili, a project was discussed and voted upon. Mrs. Wayne McMichael, corresponding secretary, reviewed a letter the circle had received from Edna Sexton while she was doing missionary work at Scarritt College in Tennessee. A letter was also read from Miss Sexton describing her missionary work with young people as superintendent of Towcoma Community House in Towcoma, Wash.
Miss Florence Anderson, program leader, introduced Jane MacDonald, who gave an interesting report on the National Convocation of Methodist Youth held at Purdue University and attended by 5,000 national and foreign representatives. Her main impression of the convocation, she said, was a realization of the strength of the church.
A social time followed, with refreshments served by the hostess, assisted by Mrs. F. J. Passinger.

THIRD BIRTHDAY
Clarendon, Oct. 24—Larry Vicini, son of Mr. and Mrs. Anthony Vicini, celebrated his third birthday anniversary with a birthday dinner at noon and a wiener roast in the evening. Mrs. David Lindberg, in charge of the program, read an article taken from "World Outlook" on "I Found Methodist Women There" by Mrs. Franklin Reed. The story told of the missionary work being carried on by Methodist workers in Bolivia.
Concluding the evening, refreshments were served by Mrs. Joy and Miss Lulu Boyd.

FAREWELL DINNER
Clarendon, Oct. 24 — Mr. and Mrs. Louis Vicini entertained 16 relatives and neighbors at dinner honoring Alvin Bauer, of Russell, who leaves for Army service with the next contingent. Being 'Good Mother' Is Most Difficult After Child Grows Up

Too often when women think of being a "good mother" they think of the term as applying only when their children are small.
But it is perhaps even harder to be a "good mother" when your children are near the grown-up stage and after they are grown and gone from home.
It is harder because in this phase of motherhood the most important ability is the ability to see the child as an adult, who must make his own decisions and follow his own inclinations.
It is a process of "letting go," rather than of "holding on" and this is always a hard thing for a woman to force herself to do.
It is far easier to tell a grown child you miss having him at home all of the time than to convince him that you are getting along fine on your own.
It is far easier to try to talk a grown child into seeing things your own way than to try to see things his way.
It is far easier to let yourself become dependent on a grown child than to seek your own independence and allow him to seek his.
It is easier to sit back and let your children make you proud of them, than to get busy and make your children proud of you.

IT'S EASIER TO FEEL SORRY FOR YOURSELF
It is much easier to feel sorry for yourself because your children have made busy and absorbing lives of their own, which allow little time for you, than to be glad they are busy and happy and independent.
And, of course, it is much easier to offer unasked-for advice, when you feel your grown-up child is making a mistake, than to hold your tongue and make yourself believe that you can't always make his decisions, realizing that after all, it is a good thing, since he is probably far better qualified to know what is best for him than you are.

What You Should Try Is the New Iodine-Iron-Vitamin Tonic. Says Mullen Drug Co. "If you are rundown—low spirit—have sleepless nights—no energy—"nerves"—poor appetite, don't be discouraged! Chances are you are just not getting your full daily requirements of the necessary vitamins and minerals from the food you eat.

Often in ten days you may feel the difference; your friends notice it. Back comes your appetite—you should actually feel the urge to eat. Nerves can grow steadier; work easier; you may sleep more soundly.
So why delay? Why not decide now to take FERRIZAN for 30 days and see for yourself just how wonderful FERRIZAN can make you feel. Costs you only a few cents a day. Money refunded if not completely satisfied, says Mullen Drug Co. adv.

A Bouquet for Players

The place is the Woman's Club auditorium; the time, right after the performance of "Good Housekeeping", Warren Players' Club initial production of the 1951-52 season; the reaction, not a single member of the large audience moved until the cast had been summoned by steady applause to take its second curtain call.

That fact, in itself, is sufficient commendation for "Good Housekeeping". It has been some time since the writer has seen a Players' production, given that reputation, a genuine tribute to the abilities of Bea Trax and a carefully chosen and well rehearsed cast. It seems the usual custom at Warren plays, and other entertainments, to make a rush for the exits even before the last line has been delivered by the principal on the stage. "Hit for the Hills" might aptly be termed a general audience slogan.

"Good Housekeeping" was an amusing play to begin with and it was given just that right touch of know how that moves a production from the ranks of average entertainment to the list of bests in a club's history.

It is always a difficult task to select a best when it comes to individual performances, since there is no high-salaried star to carry the remainder of the cast and any role in an amateur production is dependent in great measure on the success of the other performances. Principal characters, naturally, get most of the attention, but a well rounded performance is one in which everyone has his lines letter-perfect and builds toward the success of the whole production.

"Good Housekeeping" had an able director, a capable cast, and one of the most attractive sets Players' Club has used in many seasons. If any single actor were to be selected, it would be Jack MacDonald, whose return to active duty was greeted with pleasure by many who have followed the club's ups and downs since its early days. As an individual, he was in his element from the first line and, as one of the central figures in the action, continued tops until the last bow had been taken. Giving him their best support were Joan Melton, Marcia Johnson, Francis Johnson, Sally Smith, Kenny Williams, Bob Dietrich, Helen Morrow, and in their very brief appearance as the drum majorette and cheerleaders, Helen Potter, Jean Nelson, Jean Mitchell, Joan Weiler and Sarah Jane Hartman.

However, we refuse to award orchids to any single member of this cast or any other, since the aim of Players is not personal aggrandisement but the presentation of entertainment that has some appeal to every person in the audience.

From that viewpoint, "Good Housekeeping" takes its place with the best efforts of a long line of club successes.

Borough Teachers' Organization Maps Plans for Education Week Observance

Mrs. Gerda Lawrence, chairman, and her committee of Warren Borough teachers named to pave the way for American Education Week, November 11-17, met with their guests, representing borough and civic activities, at dinner last evening, and the guests found the committee well fortified with data concerning the event.

The dinner, a splendid meal prepared by the cooks in the Home Economics Department and served by a team of the teachers, was still a pleasant memory when Mrs. Lawrence introduced Miss Edna Glasser of the Warren Borough Teachers' Association, who extended a brief welcome before the committee went into action. Gerald M. Newton, director of instruction and curriculum, handed to Dr. Robert S. Steen, representing the Ministerial Association, a large packet of letters for the churches, telling of American Education Week: James Springer, loaded like a briefcase, turned his data over to George Sarvis, representing theatres, LeRoy Schneek, representing radio; and to a Times-Mirror reporter. Howard Anderson presented a well-rounded editorial set-up to advertise the week.

The school district was officially represented by Dr. Carl Whipple, superintendent of schools, and by Melvin Keller, president of the board of education. William E. Rice, council president, represented the borough.

Willingness to help the energetic committee with its plans for American Education Week was expressed by representatives of various civic organizations: Mrs. Wallace Cowden, for the Woman's Club; H. Claire Elliott, Zonta club;

Mrs. Roger Olson, for the Community P. T. A. Council; Francis J. Buchanan, for the American Legion; John Newmaker, for the Junior Chamber of Commerce; William E. Lutz, for the Rotary Club; Russell Hansen, for the Kiwanis Club; Glen J. Patchen and Donald L. Curtis, for the Lions Club.

Mrs. Lawrence's committee is composed of Mr. Newton, Mr. Anderson, Mr. Springer, and Carl Harrison, the latter being in charge of public relations with the civic organizations. Mr. Harrison spoke directly to these representatives, last evening, in outlining the purpose of American Education Week and its slogan, "United for Freedom." The program itself will be a growing arrangement, covering activities of the week and including a progressive school visit by parents who care to see how their children's school day is filled.

Several excellent posters telling of American Education Week were displayed in the Home Economics department. Dr. Whipple gave the invocation before dinner and the delicious meal was served by Anna Jane Hawkins, Bertha Bagaglia, Paul Mutzbaugh and John Stachowiak.

AT CONFERENCE

Matilda Steinhoff and Mary Jane Hawkins, representing Warren High School faculty, will be in Edinboro Thursday to attend the conference of the Erie District Council of Teachers of English. Young Veteran of Korean War Wearing Large Number of Decorations Is Visitor

A very much decorated young soldier walked into the Times-Mirror office Tuesday, in company with Sgt. James Horony, local USA and USAF recruiter.

He was Pfc. Neil Irvine, 21, son of Mr. and Mrs. Francis K. Irvine, 119 Main street, North Warren, home on a 30-day leave after extensive combat duty in Korea.

The Army. This youthful warrior wears the combat infantry badge, the bronze star medal twice awarded, Purple Heart, good conduct, five offense medal (given for participation in five major encounters), Japanese occupation ribbon, United Nations ribbon, the individual Presidential citation ribbon, and the Korean Presidential unit citation, the latter being awarded only to the 24th, 25th and First Cavalry.

Pfc. Irvine enlisted in the Army, October 15, 1948, and received his training at Fort Knox, Ky. He went to Japan, February 10, 1949, where he was on occupational duty until July 24, 1950, when he embarked for Korea. In October, 1950, Pfc. Irvine suffered severe injuries to both feet when run over by a truck and was hospitalized on the USS "Repose," Navy hospital ship. Subsequently he was in the hospital at Pusan, Korea, after his feet were frost-bitten. He was wounded in action, December 24, 1950, and sent to the Tokyo Army Hospital, Japan, and then to Sindi from where he was sent back to Korea with the 10th Corps Signal Outfit.

Pfc. Irvine received orders to return to the states, September 4 of this year, and reported to Indiantown Gap at which base he expects to be stationed after completion of his 30-day leave at home.

While in Korea, Pfc. Irvine knew Lieut. John A. Horony, who met death in action last November 5. Lieut. Horony was a brother of Sgt. Horony, the local recruiter.

Young Irvine has acquired as many ribbons as many soldiers do after years of service, and has lived a full life of action during the scant three years he has been in

Jamestown Driver Dies After Scuffle

Jamestown, N. Y., Oct. 24—An argument over a minor traffic incident last night resulted in the death of George E. Raines, 58, of 241 Fulton street. A second man, Philip A. Black, 39, of 37 West 12th street, will be arraigned this morning on a second degree manslaughter charge.

Raines was pronounced dead upon his arrival at Jamestown General Hospital following the altercation at the corner of Eighth and North Main streets at about 6 p. m.

Black in a statement to police said that while waiting for a light to change at the corner of Fourth street and Prendergast Avenue, a light colored sedan floated back and struck the bumper of a Chada-koin Construction Company truck he was driving. Black said no damage was done and he drove in, forgetting the matter.

A few minutes later, according to the statement, Black was driving west on Eighth street, between Prendergast and Main, when a car he described as similar in color to the car that struck him forced him to the curb and a man jumped out, reached through the truck window and grabbed him by the shirt. Black said he reached through the window, struck the man but did not knock him down. He then jumped from the truck, went around back and found Raines sitting on the curb with his feet in the roadway and as he reached him the man slumped to the ground.

Britain's Grand Old Tory Tries Again

AP Newfeatures

Statesman, soldier, writer, artist—amateur bricklayer. Winston Churchill's career is more colorful than one of his own canvases. As a youth he became a lieutenant in the Fourth Hussars. He fought with the Spanish in Cuba in 1895 (he had special leave), on India's frontier in 1897, on the Nile in 1898, in the Boer War in 1899-1900 and in France in 1915-16. In each campaign he won medals for personal bravery. Part of the time he served as newspaper or combat correspondent—sometimes as both soldier and writer. Early in his career, he began to write books, the most famous being those about World Wars I and II. He got into parliament in 1900, was undersecretary of state for the colonies in 1904-06 and president of the Board of Trade in 1908-10. In later years, he held many cabinet posts. During both world wars he was first lord of the Admiralty. But his greatest fame came as war-time premier in World War II. His flaming oratory stirred the world to fight Hitler. Now he is again campaigning to win back leadership of England from the Labor Party.

Good Night, Darling!

Bedtime without Teddy Bear? Unthinkable! To young ladies like Nancy, toys like Teddy are just as important as shoes and hats and dresses. And, as any parent knows, toys keep rising in price just as much as clothing.

But don't blame the stores for the rising cost of raising your family. Blame the dollar! In terms of what it will buy, the dollar is worth less today than ever before.

The dollar is making things tough for us in the telephone business, too. Costs of supplies and equipment keep going up and up. We don't buy teddy bears, of course... but we do buy telephone switchboards, for example. And the board that cost us $637 in 1940 now costs $1,485. That's an increase of 133 per cent.

In spite of all this, we have been able to provide good, low-cost telephone service that continues to grow in value day by day.

Even if it should cost more, telephone service... in comparison with other things... would still be a big, big bargain.

CITY BUILDING

Warren's oldest automobile service station, Nichols and Son, in business for almost 30 years at 1103 Pennsylvania avenue, west, now remodeled to the height of modernity, will hold a grand opening in its new building, Friday and Saturday.

Actually, the Nichols business extends over a period of 45 years for it was in 1906 that Frank M. Nichols came to Warren from Washington, Pa., and started a shoemaker's shop on the same location, with the Nichols home located next door. In 1922, Mr. Nichols started a tire repair business and the sale of tires, and installed his first gasoline pump two years later. The firm became Nichols and Son in 1932 when Michael J. Nichols graduated from Warren High school and became his father's partner. Operation of the Nichols business is quite a family affair as the other two workers there are two younger sons, Joseph and Peter Nichols.

In 1936, the Nichols tore down the original shoemaker's shop and to meet the increase in business, constructed a new station on its site. This too, became inadequate as the years passed by and a short time ago the old Nichols home, immediately adjacent, was razed to make way for a still newer building just completed, which is 37 by 45 feet in size and built of concrete, steel and glass. The combined buildings shown above, now cover the entire original Nichols property where Mr. Nichols, Sr., had his start almost a half century ago.

General repair work is also done by the Nichols station, which dispenses Sinclair products, Goodyear and Lee tires, radios, automobile radios, batteries, and a wide variety of car accessories. Car washing is a specialty in which great pride is taken as well as careful work in lubrication. It is a state inspection station and the Nichols try to make it a "one stop" for their customers in covering all their needs in one visit.

Typical of the desire to keep up with the trend, Michael Collins says of his father, who went from shoemaker to service station owner: "When people stopped walking and started driving, Dad went along with them and kept abreast of the times."

The new station will be doing business as usual Friday, and Saturday, but there will indeed be a festive air about the place. The lady visitors will receive roses, there will be gifts for the men, with plenty of balloons and candy for the children. There will be a grand award at the close of business, Saturday night.

Frank Nichols and his sons, well and favorably known throughout Warren, are receiving congratulations of their many friends and customers upon the formal opening of their new business site.

During the eight-week advanced course, he received instruction in supply economy, public speaking, heavy infantry weapons, and special training under simulated combat conditions. Each student in the school is given the chance to command units, present classes and conduct inspections, and is graded according to his performance. Sgt. Harris is a graduate of Warren High School and Washington and Jefferson College, receiving his bachelor of arts degree in 1949. He was formerly employed as sports editor for the Warren Times-Mirror and the Jamestown Post-Journal.

A special dispatch from the I Corps in Korea brings news that Pfc. Galen A. Rapp, Russell R. D. 2, has arrived in Korea and has been assigned to duties with the 1169th Engineer Combat Group as a truck driver. Graduate of Lander High in May 1947, Pfc. Rapp entered the Army in February at Ft. Meade, Md., and received training at Fort Leonard Wood, Mo., before going overseas.

David E. Gahring, seaman first class, who is receiving his boot training at Great Lakes Training Station, has returned there after spending the weekend with his parents, Dr. and Mrs. Kenneth H. Gahring, 2 Pennsylvania avenue, west.

Two local soldiers have completed processing at Fort Mead, Md., and have been given further assignments, according to word received from the reception center. They are Pvt. Gail T. Nelson, 21, son of Mr. and Mrs. Harold Nelson, 13 Parker street, who joins the 6th Armored Division at Fort Leonard Wood, Mo., and Pvt. Neil E. Trask, also 21, the son of Mr. and Mrs. Hubert Trask, Sugar Grove R. D. 3, who goes to the 5th Armored Division at Camp Chaffee, Ark.

Pfc. Donald L. Shriver, son of Mrs. E. Shriver, 1010 Madison avenue, has reported to Keesler

Air Force Base to begin training in the electronics fundamentals school, integral part of the Electronics Training Center of the World.

JACOBY ON BRIDGE

DO SOME THINKING BEFORE PLAYING

By OSWALD JACOBY
Written for NEA Service

"I wish you would point out that there's often more than one dummy at the bridge table," writes a Rochester correspondent. "This hand illustrates the point."

"My partner, West, opened the queen of clubs, and dummy played low. I carefully played the deuce of clubs to request a shift. My partner looked at the deuce of clubs, looked at the dummy, stroked his chin, and went through all the pantomime of thinking. And then he led the jack of clubs."

"Declarer now took the ace of clubs and ruffed a club. He next let me win a spade. I shot back a trump to dummy's king, and he let me win another spade. I returned the jack of diamonds to dummy's queen, and declarer ruffed a spade. Now South cashed the ace of trumps and led a second diamond to dummy. "At this point dummy had two good spades to lead through me. If I ruffed the first, South could over-ruff, draw trumps and take

"What is your comment on all this?"

My correspondent's remarks are fine as far as they go. There was more than one dummy at that table. To be accurate, there were three of them.

West could have saved the day by shifting to a heart or a diamond at the second trick, but he should never have been faced by this problem. To begin with, East

In the second place, East had no reason to depend on his partner to should not have doubled. He had lead a red card at the second trick. East should have played his king of clubs at the first trick. Then he could return a trump all by himself with no possibility of confusion.

If you want a moral, here it is: Never ask your partner to do what you can do for yourself.

Warren Dragon Gridders Drill For Clash Friday at Dunkirk

Coach J. B. Leidig is running his Dragons through the paces in preparation for their trip to Dunkirk Friday night, other area men- tions are also keeping busy to ready their squads for the big attractions on the grid slate this weekend.

The spotlight in Section Two league competition will center on the Corry-Meadville tussle on the Bulldogs gridiron Friday night, with the conference lead at stake. A victory for Meadville will give them the lead, Oil City having an open date this week, but a loss would drop them into third, place Warren in fourth, Corry in second, and leave the Oilers sitting pretty.

The only other league scrap will be at Franklin when the Titusville Rockets make their invasion. Both teams with 0-3 records are anxious to get out of the cellar. So far the Nurserymen haven't had a taste of victory this season, showing an 0-7 account, while the Lytlemen stand 2-4-1.

Other games over the weekend place Union Township against the Ridgway Elfers, currently sporting a six game victory streak after licking Warren last Friday; Erie Vincent at Bradford, the Owls a 5-1 cotender; Sugar Grove at St. Joseph's, the Grovers unvictorious in their first full season; Brookville at Johnsonburg; and Warren's opponent on the eve of Saturday, November 10, Jamestown, will play host to Olean.

McHugh Case May Result in More Power for Big 10 Czar

BY HARRY GRAYSON
NEA Sports Editor

CHICAGO—(NEA)—The McHugh case at Illinois may lead to vastly more power for Commissioner Kenneth L. Wilson, of the Western Conference.

The result could even be a new czar for the Big 10. Michigan's Prof. Ralph Aigler, chairman of the rules committee, and Indiana's John F. Mee are two faculty representatives known to be probing the highly unusual methods by which Timothy Thomas McHugh, who did not complete his junior year in high school, suddenly became a Phi Beta Kappa left halfback at Illinois.

There is no question but that this is an outstanding instance of a big-time university going out-of-bounds to land a star for its pressure football.

Young McHugh finished the regular school year at Chicago's Mount Carmel High last June, but did not obtain his full credits for the first three years. He failed in his last-semester examination in mathematics. Yet only a few days later, after brief tutoring, McHugh was smart enough to hold Shelley in his hand and make up the units he lacked in taking the entrance examinations at Illinois. The examinations were held in mid-June.

No mention was made of the fact that McHugh was the best and all-state back on the Chicago interleague prep champions.

"If his IQ tests were so good at Illinois," asks Indiana Old Blue Lindsey, "why could he not graduate from Mount Carmel High? And why did not Notre Dame accept him under the conditions imposed at Illinois?"

Obviously boys generally would not be admitted at Illinois, or any conference school, minus credits. Possibly some schools might admit a man of 21 by special regulations, but McHugh was 20. "In normal times, Tim would have graduated from Mount Carmel High," says its principal, the Rev. Ambrose Casey, "but the military situation motivated the boy. He is in the Army reserve unit on the campus."

On the moral side, however, Illinois and the conference don't have a leg to stand on.

The Big 10 is supposed to stand for purifying football, yet okay something that borders on the unethical.

If the conference wants to do something constructive to halt illicit proselytizing, why does it engage in such curve-ball deals as the approval of the McHugh case?

Philadelphia and Erie Bowlers On Tourney Schedule

Teams representing the Philadelphia, St. Mary's and Erie K. of C. Councils are scheduled to compete this weekend in the State Knights of Columbus bowling tournament at the Penn Tennis Center.

Teams slated for action Saturday are: 6:45 p. m., Barr Ford, Casey Pickup, St. Leo, San Domingo A-1, San Domingo A, Santa Maria A and Santa Maria A-1, all of Philadelphia; and an Upper Darby team; 9 p. m., Forty's Cleaners, Jimmy's Lunch, Amann Bros. Body Shop, Mack's Barbers, Del Porto's Market and W. A. Case & Son Mfg. Co., all of Erie, and two squads from St. Mary's. Members of the teams also will compete in doubles and singles matches, with squads scheduled at 11 a. m. and 1:15 p. m. on Saturday, and 10 a. m. and 12:15 and 2:30 p. m. Sunday.

Vesling, Shattuck See Game Action

The current issue of the Penn State Alumni News contains some interesting data concerning the performance of two Warren area boys in Penn State's grid clash with Michigan State which the Spartans won, 32-21.

The "Notes from the Cuff" column in the breezy report to Nittany Lion followers says: "Other defensive stars for the Lions were Keith Vesling, sophomore half-back from Clearmont, and Pete Schoderbeck, sophomore guard from Duquesne." Those who attended the game from the Warren area reported Vesling played a good portion of the game, and made at least three exceptionally fine tackles of Michigan runners who had broken into the secondary and were chugging toward touchdown land.

Ted Shattuck, of Warren, one of State's leading scorers, didn't have an opportunity to score against Michigan State, but he racked up a net gain of 22 yards in six tries at carrying the leather. Shattuck also took a direct pass from center on one play and made a quick lick that got the Lions out of a tough spot.

LOUIS ENDS TRAINING FOR MARCIANO BOUT

New York, Oct. 24—P—Joe Louis thinks he'll knock out Rocky Marciano Friday night at Madison Square Garden.

"He can't fight," said Louis after watching movies of the Marciano-Rex Layne fight. Joe didn't even stay to see the ending and Marciano's knockout victory.

The 37-year-old ex-champ looked fit and trim as he breezed through his final boxing session, hitting with power.

Despite reports of Louis' fine condition, odds favoring the Bomber slipped a peg to 6½ to 5 against the unbeaten Brockton, Mass., slugger. They're the lowest in Louis' big time career.

Queen City Murder Case
By Wm. G. Bogart

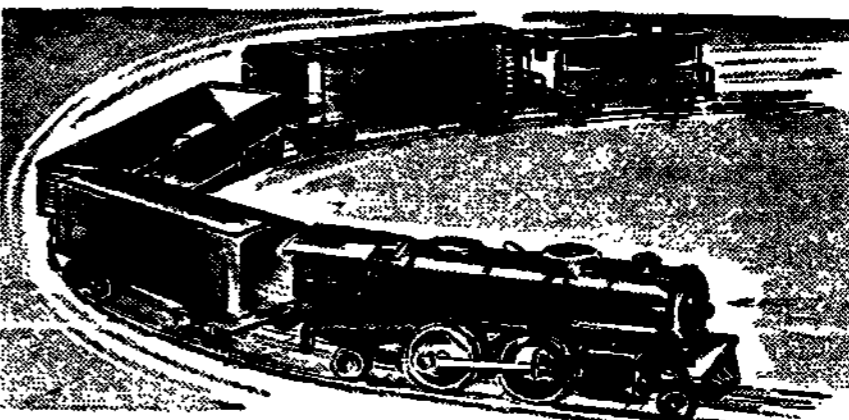

Chapter 32
MOE looked at the picture. It was Fred Tolman.
"He came to your store?" Moe said, frowning.
"Yes!" The young man raced on. "I never knew him, of course. That was before my time with the auction house. But from the things he said and asked, I knew!"
"What things?" Moe dropped his hat and coat on a chair and kept looking at the excited youth's face.
"He asked about that old spinet desk. He wanted to know where the things were that had been stored in the desk. I tried to tell him I didn't know. Then he hit me. He got me in the back of the store—he had locked the front door—and he hit me."
"Why? Why did he want to know those things?"
"He was the same man who stored that desk with us years ago. He said he was."
Moe gave a start.
"Then what?"
"He seems to be trying to locate someone... a couple of people. He mentioned two names—women's names. One was Mrs. Doris Wells. He wanted to know all about her, what business her husband was in. There was another. A Mrs. Sherman."
"Yes, that was it... he called her Elizabeth Sherman!"
"What else?" prodded Moe.
"He kept trying to find out everything he could about those people. I'd heard of their husbands, of course. They're both successful business men here in Cincinnati. Then he warned me not to go to the police... said he would kill me." The young man's eyes held horror. "And he would! He's already killed that prison guard, I knew, because I had seen his picture in the papers today. Only, he didn't know that."
"And," said Moe, "a good thing for you. Otherwise he would have killed you! Did you tell the police?"
"No! I came here looking for Mr. Saxon. I wanted to tell him. That girl... Jeannette... she was murdered, you know!"
Moe nodded.
"I think that man—Tolman—had something to do with it! I'm frightened!"

"What else did he do?"
"He found their addresses in the telephone book... the men those two women are married to. He tried to call them, and a servant or someone told him they were all at some place out in the country called 'The Colony.'"
"The Colony?" Moe exclaimed.
"Yes, that was it. I heard him repeat the name. He added 'Right after that, he left. He had a car and drove off. I'll bet it was stolen. How else would an escaped convict like that have a car?'"
Moe's round eyes were excited now. "Sure, it would be a stolen car," he agreed. "And he asked about 'The Colony?'" Moe was moving toward the switchboard. "Just a minute..."
He put through a Long Distance call to the Hopewell exchange, out in the country. He gave the number which Nancy had left with him. He waited, tensely. Johnny was in danger out there. All of them were in danger!
After a while the operator told him, "They do not answer. Shall I call you again in twenty minutes?"
Moe thought swiftly, then blurted, "No, never mind."
In the next instant he was picking up his hat and coat again. There was no time to waste, he said. "I'll drive out there. You'd better go home."
"Have you a car?"
Moe shook his head. "No, but I know where to get one. Right out front of this building. A police car!"
"I don't understand..."
Moe was already down the hallway, the young man trailing him. Moe was saying, "Those cops weren't kidding me. They let me go so they could put a tail on me. They figured I'd lead them to Johnny Saxon. Don't worry, they'll be waiting downstairs!"
The young man wondered what he was talking about.
JOHNNY SAXON saw the expression in Beas Cronk's eyes, and in the same swift glance noted that the glove compartment was open, its tiny light shining into the receptacle. So that was it! The revolver had been in there—the same gun he had taken from Tolman, the escaped convict. She had seen it when he asked her to get the cigarettes. He seldom carried a gun on his person. He had put it in there earlier.

As the car came to a standstill, Johnny looked at the woman. She still kept the gun pointed at him.
"What do you think this will get you?" he asked.
Abruptly she said, "He's my brother. You're going back to The Colony in order to get him. I'll never let you. He's my brother!" With her free hand she motioned to the door beside him. "Get out of the car!"
Johnny wondered if she really would shoot him as he got out—or whether she was merely going to take the car and race to warn her brother. Either way, it wasn't going to be very pleasant for himself.
He shrugged his shoulders. "Well, if that's the way you want it—" He turned toward the door as though reaching for the handle with his left hand. At the same time he estimated the exact position of the gun. His right hand slashed down fast and expertly, and he seized her wrist, twisting it sharply.
Bea Cronk gave a quick cry of pain and dropped the weapon. Johnny scooped it up from the seat, and was careful to put it in the pocket of his coat on the far side from her.
"You fool," he said. "You might have hurt someone."
The tears kept coming. She went completely to pieces, and sobbed racked her.
Head bowed, she murmured, "I shouldn't have done that. I'm—sorry."
"Let's look at this thing clearly," he said. "If your brother is guilty, sooner or later the police will catch up with him. Eliminating me wouldn't help. Not in the long run."
"I know," Bea admitted.
He started the car up again. He did not want to delay another instant. "I'd like to ask you some questions. Maybe you won't care to answer them. But it would help me a lot."
She was silent for a moment. Then she said, "All right. If Ralph is guilty, he deserves to pay the penalty. You've risked your own life, Johnny Saxon, in order to protect others. What is it you want to know?"
"Tell me," Johnny said, "what is it that Doris Wells is trying to hide?"
